Blue

Peter Broderick

What message can they bring to you
To tell you that it's true
If you'd only let them sing to you
Then you'd see through, when you are blue

Well when I woke up in the morning dew
I tried so hard to hide my feelings true
Then I looked around at the things I didn't do
And it made me blue, so blue

When you realize you've hurt your pride
And you feel there is no place that you can hide
You'd better find the love that's deep inside
Or it will make you blue, so blue

What message can they bring to you
Open up your heart and let the feelings come on thru
There is so much that they can do for you
It will make you true, instead of blue

Well when the morning turned to afternoon
I felt my troubles had multiplied too soon
But you can't hide behind a needle and spoon
'Cause it will make you blue, instead of true

When you turn around and try to see the new
But all you see is darkness overtaking you
You'd better realize right then what's hurting you
Or it will keep you blue, so blue

What message did they bring to you
To let you see the other side of blue
All you did was let them sing to you
And it made you true, instead of blue

Just let them sing to you
