

Reach

Peter Furler

You hold the weight of the world
Still I don't slip through your hands
Your love is bigger
Than just an ocean built by man

I fall again and again
But You whisper, "You're still mine"
You feel the pain of the world
But You never push mine aside

And You reach for me
With a love that quiets all my fears
And You reach for me
Like a Father wipes away the tears

So many people in this world
But I hear You calling out my name
You reach for me
Now I'm never gonna be the same

You know all of my fears
There's nothing Your eyes can't see
When I tried to give up
Lord, You never gave up on me

I give You all of my hopes and dreams
I lay them down
Of all the place I've looked You're the one truth I have found

And You reach for me
With a love that quiets all my fears
And You reach for me
Like a Father wipes away the tears

So many people in this world
But I hear You calling out my name
You reach for me
Now I'm never gonna be the same

You hold the weight of the world
Still I don't slip through Your hands
You put the stars in the sky
You know every grain of sand

But You reach for me
With a love that quiets all my fears
And You reach for me
Like a Father wipes away the tears

So many people in this world
But I hear You calling out my name
You reach for me
Now I'm never gonna be the same

You reach for me
For me
