

Good Day

Peter McPoland

I see the sun isn't changing today
It's not going up it's not going away
But it isn't too hot, and it isn't too cold
I think time has been stopped now I'll never grow old

First thing I'll do with eternity
Is sit and do nothing, and sip on iced tea
And when I'm all done with nothing at all
I'll stand up and run, I'll jump and I'll fall

I'll go drive around with the wind in my face
I'll swim in the ocean and watch all the waves
Crash on the shore for as long as I can
And I'll sit there just thinking with my feet in the sand

I'll walk down the street just to smile and dance
With the oldest old lady, with the meanest old man
At the babies, and the strangers who live on the bench
And I'll sit and I'll listen, I'll listen to them

I'll go take a nap in the shade of a tree
With the sun on my hands and the sound of the breeze
I'll wake to the birds singing up in the sky
And I'll sing with them too for as long as I like
I'll sing with them too for as long as I like
Yes I'll sing with them too for the rest of time
