

So Much More

Peter Mulvey

This is the song that we are always just this side of singing and this is the love that I am always just this side of bringing to you this is your heart and this is my mind and somehow they are tied once in a while we find ourselves on the same side

I know you want more than you know I want more than you want to know

but we are so alone in wanting so much more than we know this is the promise we are so afraid of breaking these are your hands that held me long ago, oh when I was shaking this is the place we have built; our love is living in it you once said to me let's go inside, outside of the wind

I know you want more than you know I want more than you want to know

but we are so alone in wanting so much more than we know