

Anything In-Between

Petey USA

The strangest thing just happened
I swear to god I had a vision
I just locked eyes with a stranger
I created in my image
He sure sounded like a Buddhist
Told me he was raised a Christian
He had jeans on and a t-shirt
He had just made a decision, He said

Why leave the backyard?
Why leave the house?
Is there anything to learn
That you can't find out on the couch?

As the sky started to open up
I prayed it was a dream
I braced for nothing
Prepared for everything
And scared of anything in between

How the hell are you so well adjusted?
I've decided to keep it simple
So whole world can simply live
Outside my quaint suburban temple
I think I've finally evolved
Beyond the selfish need to travel
I think I've gained enough perspective
I think you're starting to unravel

Why leave the backyard?
Why leave the house?
Is there anything to learn
That you can't find out on the couch
As the sky started to open up
I prayed it was a dream

I braced for nothing
Prepared for everything
And scared of anything in between

I braced for nothing
Prepared for everything
And scared of anything in between

I braced for nothing
Prepared for everything
And scared of anything in between

I braced for nothing
Prepared for everything
And scared of anything in between

I braced for nothing
Prepared for everything
And scared of anything in between
