

How Should I Remember You

Peyton Parrish

Sitting in the parking lot
Thinking about what happened last night
A conversation leading nowhere
But to a place on the wrong side
Now we're bleeding out one by one
Just breaking vows
Our love is just a show, wo wo
I already know that you want to leave

So just tell me how to remember you
Memories are fading, so tell me how
Should I love you?
Just a lesson for me to learn now
Not to love you, not to love you, not to love you
It's a lesson for me to learn
How not to love you, not to love you
So how should I remember you?

I'm just a ghost living in your world
The walking dead amongst the living
What hurts the most is that you never cared
So I should be so forgiving
I'm freaking out, it's all going wrong
Spit it out, I can't move on
We had it all, but you threw it away
Now you're spending life alone as a sinner

So just tell me how to remember you
Memories are fading, so tell me how
Should I love you?
Just a lesson for me to learn now
Not to love you, not to love you, not to love you
It's a lesson for me to learn
How not to love you, not to love you

Do I mean anything to you?
Do I mean love to you?
So how should I remember you?
Before [?] ever knew

So just tell me how to remember you
So just tell me how should I love you

So just tell me how to remember you
Memories are fading, so tell me how
Should I love you?
Just a lesson for me to learn now
Not to love you, not to love you, not to love you
It's a lesson for me to learn
How not to love you, not to love you

So how should I remember you?
