

Evening Song

Phish

Approach the night with caution
It's the best that you can do
Move quickly though the darkness
'Til the daylight is renewed

Approach the night with caution
You will know it's for the best
Once tomorrow's morning
Quells the thumping in your chest

For evening is when all things dark can
Slide around with ease
And good things all get shoved in shadows
By a wicked breeze

Approach the night with caution
No longer shall you roam
When darkness stains the eastern sky
Be sure that you are home

For night is the dividing line that
Blends the right and wrong
Spirits crossing freely over
Can hold you there too long

For evening is when all things dark can
Slide around with ease
And good things all get shoved in shadows
By a wicked breeze

For night is the dividing line that
Blends the right and wrong
Spirits crossing freely over
Can hold you there too long

For evening is when all things dark can
Slide around with ease
And good things all get shoved in shadows
By a wicked breeze

For evening is when all things dark can
Slide around with ease
And good things all get shoved in shadows
By a wicked breeze

Approach the night with caution