

Things Are Different

Picture This

Some of us will drift apart
While others stay together
Some will step in from the rain
While others face the weather
Some will take their last breath
While others breathe new life
And though they're standing on our necks
We've still the will to fight

Just 'cause things are different
Don't mean anything has changed
And I know the world's on fire
But there's beauty in the flame
And we don't know how much longer
But we know we're gonna come back stronger
Ohh, just 'cause things are different
Don't mean anything, anything has changed

Some of us will lose ourselves
While others rediscover
That love is in the innocence
A baby to its mother
And some will grasp it in their hands
While others lose control
Yeah, we've gotta leave our fingerprints
So that the future know

Oh, just 'cause things are different
Don't mean anything has changed
And I know the world's on fire
But there's beauty in the flame
And we don't know how much longer
But we know we're gonna come back stronger
Oh, just 'cause things are different
Don't mean anything, anything has changed

I'll be the light
If you follow me, I will be everything you need
I'll be the leader
If you want it, I promise that I will set you free

Just 'cause things are different
Don't mean anything has changed
And though the world's on fire
There's a beauty in the flame
And we don't know how much longer
But we know we're gonna come back stronger
Oh, just 'cause things are different
Don't mean anything, anything has changed

I'll be the light
If you follow me, I will be everything you need
I'll be the leader
If you want it, I promise that I will set you free

I'll be the light
If you follow me, I will be everything you need

I'll be the leader

If you want it, I promise that I will set you free