

Poisons

Pile

Humming much too loudly for it to be on purpose
Oh, how and with such grace we move
Stepping firmly down on the rake of best intentions
End up doing the deal around the side with you

And it's safe to hide now
Only a handful of giants watching you
Now heaven's a place where no one else is

Poisons I've tried without knowing
And the voices subside, but their eyes close in
Neither surprised that their size growing

I belong to the ground
But I've been groomed by a dream I bought
Might have been misplaced
Might have need to
All those days been worked wrong
They will all be old soon
They'll be kept all on recall

And it's safe to hide now
Only a handful of giants watching you
Now heaven's a place where no one else is

Poisons I've tried without knowing
And the voices subside, but their eyes close in
Neither surprised that their size growing
