

Decipher Reflections From Reality

PlayRadioPlay!

My parachute didn't open
And when my back up failed
The pixie dust prevailed
And i woke up next to you
All i wanted was to hold you

I was born in a city
However small
It held a hospital
For location where i came into being
It was all down hill from there

What do you do
When your lifes a disaster
And your moving faster
And its getting harder to breathe

What do you say
If some is right but
You disagree
Even if its the truth

I was told you are depressed
By a little bird
That was severly hurt
As it did not notice my window
It just flew wherever the wind blows
As it convulsed on the pavement
It whispered i am hated
Your genetic flaws
I said say it all
You cant decipher reflections form reality
But neither can i

I noticed neither can i
I noticed neither can i
I noticed neither can i

You are the circle
I am the square
I have the none cut
You have the cool hair
We both take showers
For almost an hour
But only once a week or two

What do you do
When your lifes a disater
And your moving faster
And its getting harder to breathe

What do you say
If someone is right but
You disagree even if its the truth
