

No Relief in Sight

Poco

My mind goes to pieces
And my loneliness increases
'Cause I need the arms that used to hold me tight
I've done everything I know of
To forget about your sweet love
Still, there's no relief in sight

Your memory still wakes me
And it never fails to take me
Back to a time when you made things so right
I've tried hard to discover
That old feelin' with another
Still, there's no relief in sight

Those badly needed healing hands of time ain't touched me yet
And though it's been so long I know
It's too soon to forget
Thought I'd get better some day
But it's been five years come Sunday
Still, there's no relief in sight
'Cause I've done everything I know of
To forget about your sweet love
Still, there's no relief in sight
Still, there's no relief in sight
