

From This Moment On

Poi Dog Pondering

If I pull you down...my arm around your neck
If you push your chest...up against my back
With your breath in my ear...and a palm upon my breast
Are you sure?

If you open your mouth...and kiss me with your tongue
If you open your shirt...open to a girl
If you pull my dress...up over my head
Are we sure?

From this moment on...everything will change

Your life has been a poem...written with a broken wrist
I've watched you fall in love...and I've seen you fall apart
If I straddle your hips...and push your hands against the wall
I will know you now

From this moment on...everything will change
From this moment on...your life is yours again.