

Blameless

Point North

And I lost the key to the door between you and me
Stood on the other side just waiting for release
And I think it's safe to say you're where you wanna be

I feel the heartbreak consuming me
It's like a bad dream when I'm awake

You turn the pages
But skip the words
I remain blameless
Can't decide what's worse
Something's got a hold on me
When you're lying through your teeth
You're giving up on me
It's not what it used to be

And I see the way you bury tears under the sheets
And how you wish that empty space was filled by me
It's so hard to face the way you turned away from me

I feel the heartbreak consuming me
It's like a bad dream when I'm awake

You turn the pages
But skip the words
I remain blameless
Can't decide what's worse
Something's got a hold on me
When you're lying through your teeth
You're giving up on me
It's not what it used to be

You were heaven sent
I was arrogant
You're so misleading but you kept me from bleeding because
You're so misleading but you kept me from bleeding because
I could die today
And blameless you'll remain
Cause you can't change me and I'm alright
You can't change me and I'm alright
You can't change me and I'm alright
You can't change me

You turn the pages
But skip the words
I remain blameless
Can't decide what's worse
Something's got a hold on me
When you're lying through your teeth
You're giving up on me
It's not what it used to be
Yeah
It's not what it used to be
