Love Enough

Point Of Grace

On your own All alone and crying A wounded soul on an island in the blue Love's required But you're so tired from trying Don't give up There's enough love for you

There's enough love for a broken heart Love enough for another start Love enough in the father's arms for you When it feels like the tears won't end When Loneliness is your only friend There's love enough Love enough for you

On His own All alone and dying He gave up everything for me and you Hear your heart It's time to start relying On the one who had love enough for you

There's enough love for a broken heart Love enough for another start Love enough in the father's arms for you When it feels like the tears won't end When Loneliness is your only friend There's love enough Love enough for you

Like a cup that's running over Like a well that won't run dry From the storm a constant cover For a heart, the sole supply

There's enough love for a broken heart Love enough for another start Love enough in the father's arms for you When it feels like the tears won't end When Loneliness is your only friend There's love enough Love enough for you (2x)

Love enough for you Love enough, love enough Love enough for me Love enough for you