Bloom

Polly Scattergood

You bloom with the moon and tides
I hear your cries like a wolf in the night
And I'd run through the desert just to hold you
To smell your skin, kiss your cheeks

Bloom like the blue of your eyes
May you flourish as time flies by
Paint brightly from your pallet
Treading lightly on this planet

You bloom with the moon and the tides
You are my greatest everlasting high

You are a miracle existence
My entire solar system

You bloom with the moon and the tides
I hold your curious heart each night
As I sit and watch you breathing
As your tiny eyes are dreaming

You bloom with a fire inside
Be warm when it's cold outside
On tender things, please linger
Moments soon dissolve like winter
