

Tamara

Poo Bear

A baby girl was born ten years to this day
Her daddy's little princess in every way
Her big blue eyes
Shone like sapphires
And in my heart
Were lit, a million fires

You know that space and time
Can never suppress
The love I feel for you
My little princess
Ain't enough words
That will ever express
The love I feel for you
My little princess

Her golden hair
Shimmering under the sun
I can't contain my smile at this little one
A princess for sure
And that I'm certain
For her, a knight would climb The highest mountain
Yeah

You know that space and time
Can never suppress
The love I feel for you
My little princess
Ain't enough words
That will ever express
The love I feel for you
My little princess

My little princess
My little princess
No matter how grown you are
Her courage her passion
Her generous heart
These qualities alone
Will set her apart
But within her lights
A special yearning
I wanna reach for the stars
On the back of a gelding

You know that space and time
Can never suppress
The love I feel for you
My little princess
Ain't enough words
That will ever express
The love I feel for you
My little princess

My little princess
My little princess
No matter how grown you are

My little princess
My little princess
No matter how far you are

Today you are ten
And I'm so proud
Though I am distant
I'll always be around
Today you are a woman
Look at you now
Your still in all my little princess
In her crown

You know that space and time
Can never suppress
The love I feel for you
My little princess
Ain't enough words
That will ever express
The love I feel for you
My little princess

My little princess
My little princess
No matter how grown you are

My little princess
My little princess
No matter how far you are

No matter how grown you are