

Each Night

Poolside

Lights are dim and it's cold outside
I walk the backstreets to the interstate line
And I'm home

Table is set but the candles burned down
Through the window I see the heat of your breath
Dance around

Each night is a late night
And I'm running the red lights
Each night is a late night
And I'm running the red lights

It's 10am when I open my eyes
The pillow's still warm but you're gone
It's no surprise

Dress drenched in light lay still on the floor
The tears that you shed have all dried up
You got no more

Each night is a late night
And I'm running the red lights
Each night is a late night
And I'm running the red lights

Each night is a late night
And I'm running the red lights
Each night is a late night
And I'm running the red lights
Each night is a late night
And I'm running the red lights
Each night is a late night
And I'm running the red lights
Each night is a late night
And I'm running the red lights
