

Spare Key

Poppy

I was a young hungry mess when I met you
Reckless rotten kids have a problem
So they say, so they say
Watch the full moon fade into the morning
We listened, wolves were howling
From the fire escape, from the fire escape

It's a dead-end road that I'm facing
You're a building that went vacant
It's so cold, it's so cold
You change your mood with the wind
And it's storming up ahead
I don't know, I don't know

You, in your apartment
You, that's where it started
I thought I would never leave
Got your old jean jacket and a spare key
You, went to a darkness
You, now the spark's dead
All you ever left for me
Was your old jean jacket and a spare key

But, the cobwebs keeping me from leaving
Know my fallens from realize I've been dreamin'
On my way, I'm on my way
The voice in my head's company I keep
If, if I need you won't have a spare key
Where I stay, where I stay

It's a dead-end road that I'm facing
You're a building that went vacant
It's so cold, it's so cold
You change your mood with the wind
And it's storming up ahead
I don't know, I don't know

You, in your apartment
You, that's where it started
I thought I would never leave
Got your old jean jacket and a spare key
You, went to a darkness
You, now the spark's dead
All you ever left for me
Was your old jean jacket and a spare key

It's a dead-end road that I'm facing
You're a building that went vacant...
Spare-spare-spare-spare key-key-key-key...
You, you change your mood with the wind
And it's storming up ahead...
Spare-spare-spare-spare key-key-key-key...

You, in your apartment
You, that's where it started
I thought I would never leave
Got your old jean jacket and a spare key

You, went to a darkness
You, now the spark's dead
All you ever left for me
Was your old jean jacket and a spare key
You
