

Sugar

Poppy

Sugar on my tongue, you taste like sugar on my tongue
Sugar on my tongue, you taste like sugar on my tongue

Mr. What's-his-name tells me sweet
Nothings that don't mean a thing, like it's okay
Those empty whispers try to keep me in place

Thought it was so easy
But you're in, you're out, like breezes
Thinking you're the king of this heart, but I'm not breaking

When I look into your eyes all I see is your fucking lies
Thought you had me figured out but
It's like a static sound every time you come around
Now that you are gone you taste like

Sugar on my tongue, you taste like sugar on my tongue
Sugar on my tongue, you taste like sugar on my tongue

You know it's so sweet, these bitter tears you cry right over me
You know my heart beats, so deep but it's not for you
No, it's never for you

Thought it was so easy
But you're in, you're out, like breezes
But I'm the queen of hearts, and this heart is never breaking

When I look into your eyes all I see is your fucking lies
Thought you had me figured out but
It's like a static sound every time you come around
Now that you are gone you taste like

Sugar on my tongue, you taste like sugar on my tongue
Sugar on my tongue, you taste like sugar on my tongue

Oh-woah-oh, oh-woah-oh
Oh-woah-oh, oh-woah-oh

When I look into your eyes all I see is your fucking lies
Thought you had me figured out but
It's like a static sound every time you come around
Now that you are gone you taste like

Sugar on my tongue, you taste like sugar on my tongue
Sugar on my tongue, you taste like sugar on my tongue
