Hindley Street

Powderfinger

A gentle winter haze creeps in at three forty-four The Hindley St parade shuffles to my door The hotel decor shades are always poorly sewn Twenty-five in thirty days makes this room feel like home

Na na

The western ocean breeze kick starts another day And under brewed bag tea no matter where you get it always seem s to leave that taste

The Todd Street mall cafe is here to save the day Why should I complain when everybody else is overworked and und erpaid

Na na

Days keep rolling over Escape to the undercover Soon it will all be over And we can start again