Translucent Blues

Pridelands

Elias, suspended in blue
Falling backwards through the sky searching for you
Deep inside the flashes of white
We share more than just a name
Like the traits etched in our DNA
I'll never know what remains
Bound as one in time's constraints

It reminds me that I'm human, that nothing stays the same
Lost all the colour in your eyes, as every smile began to fade
It feels like I've been running in circles
Am I doomed to end this way?

Did it feel like you were dreaming?
Like you were turning backwards all this time?
Are we connected through this feeling?
What made you draw the line?

Elias, suspended in blue
I know we'll never get to speak but I know you
Frozen skies, I'm reaching back in time

Burrow my head in my hands
As the colours all recede
I've met you in my sleep
Translucent you, revealed to me
I've been compared to you before
Seems we're quite alike, you know?
Is this connection as deep as blood?
As all the catacombs below?

Did it feel like you were dreaming?
Like you were turning backwards all this time?
Are we connected through this feeling?
What made you draw the line?

Elias, suspended in blue
Falling backwards through the sky searching for you
Deep inside the flashes of white
