It falls

False happiness is on the rise See the victims piled high In a room, without a roof Sharp mind, eternal youth I'll be the first to never die Nice thought, and I'm never gonna lose it The city grows within my head Street plans follow electric grids Brick and steel house everything I am the founder of myself And I'm never gonna lose it On my eyes Lithe in thought and pumping blood Muscle, bone and ligament twined Answer only to that point of light Love its shine And I'm never gonna lose it From this throne see the curve of the earth Turn around see it curve right back History's my backyard, eternity's my reward I have it all and all is mine And I'm never gonna lose it Why does it shake? The body, the body, the body, the body, the body Why does it move? The fear, the fear, the fear, the fear, the fear Why does it shake? The body, the body, the body, the body, the body Why does it move? The fear, the fear, the fear, the fear, the fear Why does it shake? The body, the body, the body, the body, the body Why does it move? The fear, the fear, the fear, the fear, the fear Welcome the stranger The stranger always wins He enters the temple

It falls, it always falls

Why does it shake?
The body, the body, the body, the body
Why does it shake?
The body, the body, the body, the body
Why does it shake?
The body, the body, the body, the body
