

Awakening

Psycroptic

Formed beneath our surface
Lying dormant for years
Undisturbed and waiting
Why did we feel the need

To unearth and awaken
As this giant slept we prospered
Once awakened there's no turning back
Our curiosity was too strong
Once discovered, our needs grew
Growing stronger than ever so we thought
Slowly starting to feel its wrath
In the beginning it was subtle

When will our time end—our reign supreme
We watched over it all and took more than we need
Some things are better untouched
Don't put the fire in my hands
Nothing sacred it seems
Soon to dwell below

To unearth and awaken
As this giant slept we prospered
Once awakened there's no turning back
Our curiosity was too strong

When will our time end—our reign supreme
We watched over it all and took more than we need
Some things are better untouched
Don't put the fire in my hands
Nothing sacred it seems
Soon to dwell below
