Puggy

Death is on the dance floor has he come to bring you back with him this time you go through your steps and footings but no matter what it's simply not your time

but he seems to move much slower than you do for all the steps that you have taken fades a border line that's only made by youth your only hope is youth

Don't you step into my territory
don't you step into my territory
don't you step into my territorium

'Cause I need to see you and I need to hold you too don't let life tear us apart
don't let life tear us apart

Death is at the table has he finally caught up with all the things you say no matter how you choose to phrase it know this conversation only ends one way

Don't you step into my territory
don't you step into my territory
