

Farewell

Pulley

There is no more to say, I knew it well
I saw as clearly, it were better so
Better for this brief torment
An alloy of senses tuned to each
With one clear certainty
Within their reach

It's over now
Let us smile farewell
From the highest mountains
Somewhere down to the sea
The longest waves that crest
Run out in foam and emptiness
And me you I we take it
We are no more, we are no less

I am no poorer though I muse upon
Returning hours, though I speak
I'll speak from experience behind curtained lights,
And carried hopes of yours and mine
It's all behind now and out of view

It's over now
Let us smile farewell
From the highest mountains
Somewhere down to the sea
The longest waves that crest
Run out in foam and emptiness
And me you I we take it
We are no more, we are no less

I bid to you farewell
I bid to you farewell
And I bid to you farewell
