Totally Fine

PUP

Hiding out in the back of the parking lot
A thousand choices that I probably should've called off
Fixate on every little thing
I don't eat, I don't sleep, I don't do anything

Lately I've started to feel like I'm slowly dying
And if I'm being real, I don't even mind
Whether I'm at my worst or I'm totally fine

Obliterated and I'm standing on this landmine
On auto-pilot I dial her parents' landline
Better or worse she always tells the honest truth
She says: life is unkind
But then again, so are you

Lately I've started to feel like I'm slowly dying
And if I'm being real, I don't even mind
I was holding back cause I just couldn't decide
Whether I'm at my worst or I'm totally fine

I've got all I need
Except a way to sleep at night
Pushing through the deep
I've got all I need but still

Lately I've started to feel like I'm slowly dying
And if I'm being real, I don't even mind
I was holding back cause I just couldn't decide
Whether I'm at my worst or I'm totally fine
(Woo!)

You're never totally fine
I'm never totally fine
We're never totally fine

Lately I've started to feel like I'm slowly dying
And if I'm being real, I don't even mind
I was holding back cause I just couldn't decide
Whether I'm at my worst or I'm totally fine
