

(So unlucky, so unlucky)
How lucky you are to be so unlucky
How lucky you are to be so unlucky

Nobody helped, but she was right to be mad and cry
And now that you're lying down, getting hit by the fireworks, you
Threw from the balcony, and they said we should go
Fortunes I couldn't have, I kind of guessed anymore

How lucky you are to be so unlucky
How lucky you are to be so unlucky

A brand new hotel, you threw me screaming into the water
As the fire broke out, father showed me Orion's belt
Over a flash of green where the sun had gone down
And that's where I go to be the stranger that I am

As we moved out, there was a
Sign in the elevator
"No explosives allowed"
But we never were sign readers
And the shame makes you proud

(So unlucky, so unlucky)
How lucky you are to be so unlucky
How lucky you are to be so unlucky
Breaking onto the rooftop over Waikiki
