

Nemesis

Pyramaze

Wasting my days, I'm wasting my nights
Wasting seems all I can do
Come on inside, step into my world
A wasteland of thoughts about you

Life is so strange and uncertain
Quite devoid of common sense
Always ready to challenge me

If I could stop the rain from falling down
Keep the clocks from turning round, my Aphrodite
I'd dive into your precious heart
Push it for a brand new start
I'd be the almighty

I swear on my name that she once was mine
The strength upon which I'm building
A mythical place to fill the dream
My whole life's contingent on hunting

The impossible scenery
We can live and breathe as one
Regardless of Nemesis

If I could stop the rain from falling down
Keep the clocks from turning round, my Aphrodite
I'd dive into your precious heart
Push it for a brand new start
I'd be the almighty

But in the dead of night
She comes like a wind
And her wrath just might burn my skin
As I recall her name: the daughter of Oceanus
Her retribution begins
But I'm still longing

If I could stop the rain from falling down
Keep the clocks from turning round, my Aphrodite
I'd dive into your precious heart
Push it for a brand new start
I'd be the almighty

If I could stop the rain from falling down
Keep the clocks from turning round, my Aphrodite
I'd dive into your precious heart
Push it for a brand new start
I'd be the almighty
