

Home (Where I Am Now)

Rachael Sage

I love this city
Strange beautiful city
Everything about it feels like home
I love this city
I don't long for anyone to know
Anything about me or
The places I call home

And when I look above at all the skyscrapers at night
I think about the girl I wanna be
I know that every stranger has a dream they keep inside
I wonder which one of them could be me

Home is where you're taken in
Fearlessly breathing with the wind
Home is where you set your spirit down
I'm at home in all this beauty
Everything about it moves me
I may be from another place but home's where I am now
Where I am now

I woke up this morning
Inspired by Manhattan's yawning
City sirens and the buskers circling Union Square
I woke up this morning
Lady Liberty was calling
Me to lose my inhibition
Let loose my tangled hair

And when I look above at all the skyscrapers at night
I think about the girl I wanna be
I know that every stranger has a dream they keep inside
I wonder which one of them could be me

Home is where you're taken in
Fearlessly breathing with the wind
Home is where you set your spirit down
I'm at home in all this beauty
Everything about it moves me
I may be from another place but home's where I am now
Where I am now

And all I ever hoped for was the chance
To listen and to be well listened to
I know some people may long to be rescued in romance
But love is an adventure and I wanna spend it being close to you

Home is where you're taken in
Fearlessly breathing with the wind
Home is where you set your spirit down
I'm at home in all this beauty
Everything about it moves me
I may be from another place but home's where I am now
Where I am now
