We'll kill some crows since there are too much of them
We'll get rid of some monkeys since there are too much of them
We'll raise more pandas since there are few of them
But we'll raise more mankind yet while there are too much of them

While we've always been offering prayers and singing praises to God
We've noticed that we mankind have turned into God without knowing
That's right, who do we think we are?

I've never seen the real thing
But I've seen them in arts that are here and there
Furthermore, God that I've heard in stories always
Holds a shape of a human

Is it a coincidence?
Fate that has coincided?
Perhaps just a selfish sketch?

It's here and there
Where do you mean by 'there'?
What on earth did you mean, Da Vinci?

If an afterlife exists? Or if it supposedly doesn't?
What about it?
If we are to reincarnate? Or if we aren't to?
Who cares?
Mankind are always egotistic about anything
They insist that there are still more beyond
Even while we stand on top of the chain of...whatever it's called

If I am to become God
And am able to decide everything
I would certainly not do such a thing as making the world within seven days

I would definitely spend more time
And would make a proper plan
Because look, since it was made in such a hurry and rush
It's been cut and pasted, formed and ruined

Brought forth and brought down
Brought down then brought forth
You ask, why?
Why is it so? What is it for?

You pretend to hold a question mark
While you actually already know
"Please tell me, let me know. Why is it so? Why is it so?"
I'm telling you, it's because mankind are foolish
Of course they are, we all are aware of that
So they should just perish by a count of 1,2,3
Cuz I'm telling you

Mankind are born foolish, and they are to die foolish
Then it's just pointless to use our mind
Well, let's just look forward to ourselves in the next world
Hey wait, what about ourselves in this world

Come, let's be reckless! And then thoughtless!
Combine them together and let's make a mess!

Come, here's a veil, and here's a mask
Wear them both and let's turn everything obscure

You ask, what's wrong with all that?
There always is a path waiting ahead even after things get ruined
You ask, what's next?
While you were the one who threw them away from doubtfulness
But, although, however
Yet, still, besides
How should we do what?
Whatever we say, whatever we do, they say that they're all no good

Then what should we do?
Where should we go?
We're unable to get there, regardless of our existence here
So then, where should we go...?

If an afterlife exists? Or if it supposedly doesn't?
What about it?
If we are to reincarnate? Or if we aren't to?
Who cares?
If we might go to heaven? Or if by any chance to hell?
So what?

The path could be by our side, even if it might not be above or beneath us
