What's true friendship? I don' know
But if this isn't, I don't need it, don't care

So this is youth? No idea
But if this isn't, I don't need it, don't care to know

Can't even remember how we met, we were so careless
If whimsical wind blows we'll blow apart

Never good at getting along, I was hesitant
Then why and how did we come this far?

I guess we looked at things the same way
What felt good and made us happy, indescribable soft spots we shared

Like miracle it was one of the best things
That could have ever happened to me - YOU

What's true friendship? I don' know
But if this isn't, I don't need it, don't care

So this is youth? No idea
But if this isn't, I don't need it, don't care to know

Never said "We're friends", took it for granted
Too shy to admit but now's the chance to say

Get drunk, get bruises all over our bodies, no sense no more
Binge drinking, whiplash next morning, what are we gonna do today?
At 5 a.m. in the morning

Brazen shameless hoochie coochie, a damn good music playing in the background
On the night I vowed to be alone, wait, it will break soon

Don't wanna comply, bark, or settle, I'm always astray but never waver
Sometimes I take their hands, let them decide, can't even say thank you

Broken dream shattered into pieces
It wasn't a silly dream, we believed in it
I know I saw you from the front row, watching how brave you acted

You were more beautiful than you ever were
You were more brave than any time in your life
I was envious of the dream we shared
Although my part was one in a few billionth
For the first time in my life I learned to dream someone else's dream

What's true friendship? I don' know
But if this isn't, I don't need it, don't care

So this is youth? No idea
But if this isn't, I don't need it, don't care to know

I used to cling onto what I thought mattered
Refusing to let go, clenched my fist tight

But I've changed, that's all gone
I can show you, I can tell you, this is who I am

By tomorrow our bond may disappear
Good enough for us than to hope it's forever

It'll be gone one day, it's a wink and a blink away
Ephemeral pleasure, what a gas, don't care, I'll take you into mine
