Although I don't really have anything special I want to say
I have as many things I want to know as I like

Something like a conversation before the universe was born
Something like the words that you got swallowed by that day

Although I don't really have anything special I want to say
I have as many things I want to proceed with as I like

Something like the Golgotha something like the other side of this world
Something like the place where I'll remember when I forget the way to proceed

Let me hear it one day
Show it to me
Tell me exactly

Why is it like this?
Why is it like that?
Look, please don't hide it

Although I don't really have anything special I want to say
If it's one or two, I have it too

Although I have as many things I want to know as I like
I don't know if I really want to know or not

Being silent all along
Keeping it secret
Without saying the answer
Why is it like this?
Why is it like that?
Please don't say it

The more you know
The more you see
The more you listen
The more you go
The more you play (an instrument)
The more you meet
The more you do
Why is it like that?
