This certain heart that's calling out
The uncertain words "see you again"
In order not to lose it, not to forget

Today is the very first day of the beginning of my future life
Yesterday was the very last day of the life that I lead

Waking up in the morning, I head to the toilet for the very first time in th e history of my current life
I made my very first step in the history of my current life

But I was the same as yesterday, I was getting tired of being repetitive I suddenly remembered someone's words "history repeats itself" I guess this is what they meant

This certain heart that's calling out
The uncertain words "see you again"
In order to not let it escape, to not forget, to be

The futon that I folded with drowsy eyes, and the room that I cleaned after having not for a while
Were all small little presents that I dedicated to me in the future

The words of vow written on the wall, and setting the alarm clock before fal ling asleep
Were all challenges left from the me who ends today to the me who starts tom orrow

I am not the same even for slight moments, I want to not forget this as long as I live

I carried on the burden that everyone else before me had linked

Even when I wish for a different tomorrow and end up facing the same colors again anyway

I will be different, I will be myself

I haven't forgotten my voice on the day I screamed

I will keep going on until I can keep the promise of meeting again

Like how I was born after tens of thousands of years

I will link my old self to the one in the future

Everything will become the very first time of your life from there

Everything will become the very last time of your life from there

Today is the very first day of their life for someone

Today is the very last day of their life for someone

This certain heart that's calling out

The uncertain words "see you again"

Scream, tu-lu tu-lu, tu-lu tu-lu tu-lu
