The next morning after we fought, you smiled
You knew I was in the wrong, but you smiled

"I hate you already", and you cried
Anyone would know I was joking, but you cried

I knew everything, but I smiled
You cried for the sake of someone like me

You loved someone like me

Those words I received from you on that day
I haven't forgotten them even today
That love I received from you on that day
I can't forget them

You were the one who always hung up the phone first
I always waited for what came after "Good night"

"I hate you already", and you cried
I said I was joking, but you cried all the way

You cried for someone like me
You were always there together with someone like me
You smiled for someone like me
You loved someone like me

Those words I received from you on that day
I haven't forgotten them even today
That love I received from you on that day
I can't forget them
