

Castaway Blues

Raef

I've been thinking about times to come
Reminiscing, singing Here comes the Sun
And I do believe tomorrow's gonna free the pain

Launch a pebble into a lake
Watch it skipping as the ripples shake
We're going to the ocean
The world is dripping away

And when summer falls and springtime stalls
And winter won't seem to fade
Watch the hours bending, fencing you in, working day to day
Trapped you in their schools, made you follow rules
And they take your dreams away
Grab a fishing pole and your bucket of stars
Sail to the moon and cast away

Smile once, and you'll break the spell
Toss a penny, and wish it well
Tell it all the dreams you've hid away

Watch the branches dancing in the wind
With every sunrise another day begins
Every morning and evening is a mirror of Eden and grace

And when summer falls and springtime stalls
And winter won't seem to fade
Watch the hours bending, fencing you in, working day to day
Trapped you in their schools, made you follow rules
And they take your dreams away
Grab a fishing pole and your bucket of stars
Sail to the moon and cast away

I've been thinking about times to come
And I've been feeling like I'm number one
And I do believe tomorrow's gonna be the day
