

Moving around without a sound
Like I'm about to drown tonight
So many demons that I can't fight
Blinded by the city lights
Feel torn apart and capsized
And I lost my sight, nothing feels right
Like a dark side acolyte, I'm terrified
Been in the shadows since last December
I'm about to surrender
Disorientated but I'm still going straight
And I can't communicate
Feeling my blood pressure elevate
Tunnel vision seems to escalate
But I will not hesitate

This ship is going down today
Drifting away for the last time everyday
This ship is going down today
Drifting away for the last time everyday

Up, up, and away, never stay, here we go
Twenty shots on a Thursday, never slow
I'm sinking down in debt

But whatever it takes to forget
I know I'm on a destructive lane, you talk in vain
'Cause I'm tired of having to explain
I can't turn away, from this sleep

This ship is going down today
Drifting away for the last time everyday
This ship is going down today
Drifting away for the last time everyday

I'm living in the shadow of a life that anyone could adore
This ship is going down and I don't think that I can breathe anymore
My memories are fading, and I'm all alone
With their pictures on my iPhone
But their names written on a stone

And I can't breathe
And I can't breathe
And I can't breathe

And I can't breathe!
And I can't breathe!
And I can't breathe!
