

Somewhere Else

Randy Rogers Band

Another restless night, TV static
I swear your ghost lives in the attic
Where I put all those old love letters you left behind
I could drag myself out of this bed
Or close my eyes, but you're still in my head
A little bit of you lives everywhere since you said goodbye
Since you said goodbye

To the moon, hell, take me to Mars
It won't matter, baby, there you are
Every bottle on every shelf
It's all the same as far as I can tell
I think I'll just lay here by myself
'Cause I'd just be missing you
I'd be missing you somewhere else

I could try that Florida beach
The Colorado Rockies or LA streets
Somebody new or some old flame works all the same
You're still getting away

To the moon, hell, take me to Mars
It won't matter, baby, there you are
Every bottle on every shelf
It's all the same as far as I can tell
I think I'll just lay here by myself
'Cause I'd just be missing you
I'd be missing you somewhere else

To the moon, hell, take me to Mars
It won't matter, baby, there you are
Every bottle on every shelf
It's all the same as far as I can tell
I think I'll just lay here by myself
'Cause I'd just be missing you
I'd be missing you somewhere else

Missing you
Missing you somewhere else
Missing you