We Stay Behind

Rasputina

"There was a black rainbow That rose up and covered the town!" Exclaimed Howard Blue, 22 "I never even had a nightmare Or a beautiful dream about this," He said As he watched the warehouses burn

The hurricane pilot Swoops into the 25-mile-wide eye And he gasps 'cause the size of it was astounding The towering columns of cumulonimbus stretched six miles high

Two friends remembered A wooden leg With a shoe Detached from its owner while he slept Twenty-two bodies found tied together in Violet

Living in a mausoleum Making governments of our own As the sky turned pink, four horses emerged from the water Led by a stallion, they Start grazing on neutral ground

We are the ones The ones who stay behind, we stay behind We are the ones The ones who stay behind, we stay behind