

Weeping Willow

Ray LaMontagne

Weeping Willow
Willow oh so fair
Can't you see, grown so dear to me
And I want you, and I always will
So Willow, be my love

Weeping Willow
Will you walk with me?
Take my hand, then you'll understand
That I need you, and I always will
So Willow, be my love

Will you change your mind and stay?
Will you listen to what I have to say?
I need you, and I always will
So Willow, be my love

Weeping Willow
Oh, the games you play
I chase you, and you run away
And though you try to hide your smile behind your hands
Your eyes give you away

Will you change your mind and stay?
Will you listen to what I have to say?
Though you try to hide your smile behind your hands
Your eyes give you away
Your eyes give you away