

Loner

Ray Scott

Everybody needs someone, yeah, everyone but me
Love's just a thing folks do right up until they leave
One thing I've learned, and I've sure learned my lesson well
The only one I really trust, is my own jaded self

I'm a loner
I don't run with no pack
I set out on my own long ago, and I ain't turnin' back
My home
Is on that lonesome highway breeze
You may wanna ride, but honey you ain't gonna ride with me
I'm a loner

I've got the scars from all those years of livin' wrong
And a heart as dark as the minor chords
That frame this damned sad song
It might be best we have this drink
And go our separate ways
Cause I may linger for the night
But I won't ever stay

I'm a loner
I don't run with no pack
I set out on my own long ago, and I ain't turnin' back
My home
Is on that lonesome highway breeze
You may wanna ride, but honey you ain't gonna ride with me
I'm a loner

Yeah, I'm a loner
I don't run with no pack
I set out on my own long ago, and I ain't turnin' back
My home
Is on that lonesome highway breeze
You may wanna ride, but honey you ain't gonna ride with me
I'm a loner

Yeah I'm a loner
Yeah I'm a loner
Ooh
Whoa
