

Superman

Ray Scott

This one-bedroom apartment
Sure ain't where my heart is
It's over on her side of town
I wonder if I called her
If she'd even wanna talk or
If there's anything to talk about

My friends don't ask about her
When they see me without her
They all know that I know why
This ain't that big a town and
Any fool could figure out
He's the reason she's no longer mine

If it's true what they tell ya
When they say what don't kill ya
Is gonna make ya stronger somehow
I should be Superman
I should be Superman by now

They say the Lord won't hand ya
Anything that you can't handle
No hurt that you can't rise above
But has he ever felt pain like this?
Does he really know what Hell is?
Has he ever lost this kind of love?

If it's true what they tell ya
When they say what don't kill ya
Is gonna make ya stronger somehow
I should be Superman
I should be Superman by now

Yeah, If it's true what they tell ya
When they say what don't kill ya
Is gonna make ya stronger somehow

I should be Superman
Bendin' steel with my hands
I should be Superman by now