

After The Fall

Ray Wylie Hubbard

I've been staring at the ceiling trying to catch my breath
Can't keep my mind from racing, I can't close my eyes and prete nd

Second thoughts are the one thing I know, they never go away
I guess they'll always have their place

I used to believe that there was no escape
There's gonna be pain, it's something you have to take
And I'm starting to find that there's some cracks in these wall s

And after the fall
There's love after all

If you try to look too deep you might not see it all
There are no big deals; then again, this ain't exactly small
Every time you take a step back you get a different view
And you can see enough if your aim is true

I came to believe that there was no escape
There's gonna be pain, it's something you have to take
But I'm starting to find that there's some cracks in these wall

And after the fall
There's love after all
I keep searching in my heart to see what it has to say
It will whisper in the dark and it will shout at the break of d ay
I take hope as it comes, I never let it slip away
And one-by-one all my dreams fall in place

I used to believe that there was no escape
There's gonna be pain, it's something you have to take
But I'm starting to find that there's some cracks in these wall

And after the fall
There's love after all
And after a fall
There is love after all
