

Click Clack Symphony.

RAYE

Did you know the odds to be born on this Earth's 1 in 400 trillion?
I conquered those odds yet I can't conquer leaving this house
I eat, sleep, scroll and work, but there has to be more than just merely existing
In fact, I was thinking there's not enough wine in the fridge to unleash me
And this feeling fiends for some feminine healing, by that I mean

I called my girls and said, "SOS, pick a dress, pick a time and an address, for we are going out tonight"

Send the call out, send the call out
Calling all my baddest womens, it's about to go down
Click-click-click clack symphony, I need that
Click-click-click-clack symphony, I love the sound of it
Who let the girls out?
I did, I did, darling
She's empowered by the sound of us marching
Her legs are hurting but her back is still arching
And this sound reminds me that it's going to be alright

And you never could've guessed I started my morning in tears
Got a great waterproof mascara I can recommend
I should try my luck in Hollywood and find some auditions
Because the way I fake a smile could pay the mortgage and the rent
I climb into my lonely throne before my TV
I feel alone, I feel like no one really needs me
So thank you, Carly, for having a sixth sense and for calling to remind me
We don't settle for depression on a Friday night

I need a pep talk
I need a hug, I need a dance floor
I got one little life, I need to get out the house more and really start living it
Heavy is the burdens that are weighing on me
I will lay them down under some pink and blue lights
Call my girls and said, "SOS, pick a dress, pick a time and an address for we are going out tonight"

Send the call out, send the call out
Calling all my baddest womens, it's about to go down
Click-click-click clack symphony, I need that
Click-click-click-clack symphony, I love the sound of it
Who let the girls out?
I did, I did, darling
She's empowered by the sound of us marching
Her legs are hurting but her back is still arching
And this sound reminds me that it's going to be alright

Jim-Jimmy Choo, it's time to open up the closet
It's a sad sight to see Manolo Blahnik gather cobwebs
Why, I'm like an alien in every dress I try
Sigh, let me turn my music louder and pretend it's fine

Everything that's hurt me, left and gave up on me
Am I just the product of everything that was done to me?
Run to me, come to me, someone bring the sun to me
I can see the glimmer of the girl who once believed

She just needs
She needs a pep talk
She needs a hug, she needs a dance floor
She's got one little life, she needs to get out the house more and try and s tart living it
Heavy is the burdens that are weighing on me
I will lay them down under some pink and blue lights
Call my girls and said, "SOS, pick a dress, pick a time and an address for w e are going out tonight"

Send the call out, send the call out
Calling all my baddest womens, it's about to go down
Click-click-click clack symphony, I need that
Click-click-click-clack symphony, I love the sound of it
Who let the girls out?
I did, I did, darling
She's empowered by the sound of us marching
Her legs are hurting but her back is still arching
And this sound reminds me that it's going to be alright

Though this season of her life had been cold, lonely, and tough
Though she slipped back into a darkness she had hoped by now to have overcom e
She had learned a beautiful lesson
As she kissed her girls goodbye and thanked them for getting her out the hou se
That maybe everything was going to be
Alright
And even if only for a moment
Everything is going to be alright
It's going to be alright
Going to be
Alright

Send the call out, send the call out
Calling all my baddest womens, it's about to go down
Click-click-click clack symphony, I need that
Click-click-click-clack symphony, I love the sound of it
Who let the girls out?
I did, I did, darling
She's empowered by the sound of us marching
Her legs are hurting but her back is still arching
And this sound reminds me that it's going to be alright

She put her headphones in
And there she danced under the weight of her clouds
But for the first time in a long time
She believed that one day, she would again feel the sun
She must be patient
She must have faith in the seeds that are planted beneath the snow
She must hold on, and she must let go

She'll be alright
No riding, shining, armoured knight
She will save herself this time
And in fact tonight, she did confirm
The cold never lasts, my darling
It just teaches the heart how to burn
