

Mother Nature

RAYE

Good morning

Mother Nature painted the sky for us this dawning
She took some crimson reds and melts them into oranges
She hides the moon behind the curtains safe out of sight
Then she'll open them up to prepare for the night
As she breathes and she blows
The trees, they stretch their arms, as they dance, they've rehearsed it
The ocean roars like a thousand lions standing proud
Oh Mother Nature, you're just showing off now

As it rains

How she cries
For as she burns for us
She still turns for us

And so she will provide
For as long oh as long as she can

She'll be beautiful
So beautiful
For as much as she can stand

Forgive us, Mother Nature
For we know not what we do

But in her dress of green and blue
She still turns, she still turns
And she's still turning

And so she will provide
For as long for as long as she can

She'll be beautiful
So beautiful
For as much as she can stand

Forgive us, Mother Nature
For we know not what we do

But in her dress of green and blue
She still turns, and she still turns
And she's still turning

In her dress of green and blue
And she's still turning, hmm
