

The Cold Easy Life Of A Loner

Rayland Baxter

So lonely, is something different from alone
Nobody calling my name, nobody hanging around
It's a dark ride hiding from the sunshine
To the bottom of the mountain
Then I'm flying around

I've got nowhere to go but I ain't in over my head
So when the sun is set and the light is gone
And everybody else a be a moving on
It's the cold and easy life of a loner

So I take a fast train from the city where I live
20$ and a suitcase is all I ever need
Down to a cold road in a middle of a nowhere
Nobody on the corners a they are waiting for me

I've got nowhere to go but I ain't in over my head
So when the canyon's empty and the coyote cries
I could sit right here until the end of time
It's the cold and easy life of a loner

Yeah I never said I was lonely, and I never said I was sad
And I've never told you what I wanted babe
I ain't telling you what I had
And if you bring all the roses, doll, then I'll bring all the c harm
Right there, hanging from your own

So I've got a bible, yeah I got it from my mother
A cover to cover, lord knows I read it all
And I'm glad that I read it, I ain't never gonna forget it
Cause he always comes to me when I call

I've got nowhere to go but I ain't in over my head
So when the sun is set and the light is gone
And everybody else a be a moving on
When the canyon's empty and the coyote cries
I could sit right here until the end of time
And when the sun is set and the light is gone
You know everybody else a be a moving on
It's the cold and easy life of a loner
It's the cold and easy life of a loner