

The Answer

Rea Garvey

You need an answer but I can't say what I don't know
If you surrender to this fear of being alone
I'd see you die like killing a part of me

You need an answer but I can't say what I don't know
If you surrender to this fear of being alone
I'd see you die like killing a part of me

Overloaded, you can't carry all this weight
You're devoted to a cause that we both break
I'd see you die while you're killing a part of me

Don't stop now
We'll work it out

Start today and no time tomorrow
Find the way, beg, steal and burrow
Hitch a ride, jump a train
And when you're feeling alone
Just get up and keep going

It's hard to say where you'll land
On your feet or on your hand
Not a fight not a ticket price
And when you're feeling alone
Just get up and keep going

Why would you wait up, wait up too beaten down
She tries to break up, you're still calling round
How far you've fallen, you're killing that part of me

And there's no waking up and hoping it's all gone
'Cause there's just facing up to everything you've done
It's hard to brace when you're killing that part of me

Don't stop now
We'll work it out

Start today and no time tomorrow
Find the way, beg, steal and burrow
Hitch a ride, jump a train
And when you're feeling alone
Just get up and keep going

It's hard to say where you'll land
On your feet or on your hand
Not a fight not a ticket price
And when you're feeling alone
Just get up and keep going

'Cause it feels like hell right now
But a day will come
When the hurt won't hurt somehow
And you're moving on

Start today and no time tomorrow
Find the way, beg, steal and burrow

Hitch a ride, jump a train
And when you're feeling alone
Just get up and keep going

It's hard to say where you'll land
On your feet or on your hand
Not a fight not a ticket price
And when you're feeling alone
Just get up and keep going
