

nobody ever makes it last anymore they're always looking for the easy way out these days love is a revolving door cast aside at the first sign of doubt

i never thought this would happen to us i thought we had something to trust and though we loved like we had nothing to lose i thought you and me were supposed to be bulletproof you were my anchor and i was your rock i needed answers you you held the key i made you listen and you made me talk you were the only one who mattered to me

and though we loved like we had nothing to lose
you were the best thing that i ever found they all said we made a pretty good team i set em' up and then you knocked em' down one day it all just came apart at the seams

and though we loved like we had nothing to lose
