Conversations all in vain
If we offer it to fade
Hurts like hell to watch you go away
Standing out under the rain
Waiting for an awful pain
Now we're doubting the way it's all drawn out

And she's no ordinary woman
Weighing on my mind
Latching on to all and dreaming
Campfires in the sand
And the other world
It seems so far away
Locked out of her life

It's so beautiful, this place
And the light across your face
Through the dead of the night, I'd run with you
Kiss these secrets in my mind
Hold on 'til the end of time
At the death of the day, we're so alive

And she's no ordinary woman
Weighing on my mind
Latching on to all and dreaming
Campfires in the sand
And the other world
It seems so very far away from here
Coming around one more time and then

Here I am
Half a man again
Here I stand
Confused and out of place
And falling hard
Torn apart again
I want to know

And she's no ordinary woman
Weighing on my mind
Latching on to all and dreaming
Campfires in the sand
And the other world
It seems so very far away from here
Coming around one more time

She's no ordinary woman
