

Neruda

Red Rider

Talked to a boy passed along the way
Talked to a man who knew the boy
And there are many, and there are few
But no one knows the boy like you

There were no lines drawn
And no hatred in their eyes
And no flags flown
In that boy's sky

Oh-oh-oh-oh...