

Right Here Right Now

Rehasher

Pay no mind
Of what's to come
Easy to say, easily done
Take each moment one by one

Hold your ground
And take a stand
Lift yourself by your own hands
Don't wait on your so-called friends

Don't want an explanation
Why there's no motivation
Feels like distractions all I see
I won't let those pitfalls bury me

I would rather be right here right now
With my head out of those clouds
I would rather be right here right now
Making every second count for something

Nothing lived
Nothing learned
Take a step and take your turn
Fly too close and make it burn

Take a leap
A leap of faith
Makes no sense to hesitate
Nothing good comes to those who wait

You'll need stories when your old
What you touch just might turn to gold
From that couch you'll never know

Let's find out how this chapter unfolds

I would rather be right here right now
With my head high on those clouds
I would rather be right here right now
Making every moment count for something

Back then I always used to say
I'd like to live without mistakes
But f*cking up is a part of life
And sitting stagnant won't suffice

So take the chance
And take a hit
You've only got one life to live
(You're missing out again
Trapped in tiny screens)

I would rather be right here right now
Making every moment count for something
I would rather be right here right now
With my head high on those clouds

I would rather be right here right now
Making every moment count for something
I would rather be right here